

HOW GERMANS JOSHED OUR BOYS IN TRENCHES

(By Associated Press)

ATLANTA, GA., March 17.—A year ago when the 82nd division was in training at Camp Gordon here an engineering company wrote to all their headquarters that it had built a plane of such strength and balance that it could be carried in the first line trenches to help while away the hours on inactive service. Officers at the camp made some remarks about the instrument, one major whimsically suggesting organization of the "30th trench plane battalion."

A local newspaper published a humorous account of the incident, picturing each husky private of the 82nd going over the top with a "trench plane" strapped to his back. Powder puffs, rums and lip sticks might be added to the soldier's knapsack to make trench life more bearable, the writer suggested. It caused many a laugh at the camp.

The 82nd went to France and took part in some of the hardest fighting of the war. On August 2, 1918, German aviators dropped into their trenches in the Toul sector copies of the identical story with this solemn comment attached:

"What are you fighting for, Sam? While you are fighting and risking your life, the folk back home are spending their time inventing trench planes and lip sticks instead of inventing submarines and airplanes."

Major Quimby Maiton of the 82nd in a letter to a friend here says the men of the 82nd fairly fought for the German leaflets and had the heart-felt laugh of their overseas career. There was nothing to show how a copy of the local paper's story was transmitted to Germany.

ECUADOR DENIES BOUNDARY STORY

(By Associated Press)

QUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, March 17.—P. A. officially announced today that the report that Ecuador had asked President Wilson to act as arbitrator in the boundary dispute with Peru is entirely without foundation. It is explained that such a step might be considered as serious compromise of the government's position with Ecuador and congress before it had a chance to pass upon the league of nations project.

LEAVES LEGS IN FRANCE; DANCES FOXTROT HERE

Uncle Sam Gives Soldier Boy New Lease on Life.

Lillard Evans is a colored soldier boy who had both legs blown off in action. He lives for the present at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio in San Francisco. He can and does dance fox trots and one-steps. How? Why?

Of course to dance a fox trot or a one-step a fellow has to have legs—good legs. Well, Evans has them—not his own legs of flesh and bone, but his own willow legs with joints and everything. He is going to leave Letterman pretty soon and go back to work and make his living and probably get married and raise children. That's the how.

The why of it is the government of the United States has gone in for leg and arm making. It is giving a specially built leg or arm or hand or a pair of legs or arms or hands to every soldier who lost his legs or arms in the war. At Letterman in particular they are making legs and arms and hands in their own workshop. They are making them because they have hit upon a better artificial limb than the private manufacturers are turning out, not excepting the "Liberty Leg" which the government supplies in most cases.

This is one phase of the reconstruction work that Uncle Sam is quietly carrying on. It is one of the least expensive, but it is costing hundreds of thousands of dollars. Remember that when Uncle Sam comes knocking at your door with the Victory Liberty Loan. Much of the money you will lend is going to regenerate these men who gave of their flesh and blood for their country.

AMERICAN IDEALS CASH AND CREDIT SUNK IN NEW ERA

By United States Senator Reed Smoot of Utah.

"America's task is not over; her world-work still remains to be done. A great national, in fact a great international duty, still confronts the American people. The cash and the credit of the American people must be used to finish paying for this war and to pay for financing the peace that is here in part and which is now in process of completion and consummation in Paris, where under the leadership of our great President our country is imbedding American ideals and American principles into the very foundation of a new and a better world."

"No American who loves his country and who loves humanity and justice and right can regard his sacrifice at an end or his duty done. We must pay for those things we bought or contracted for to make our army powerful and to give our soldier boys the best care possible. We must bring these boys home and restore them to useful vocations in civil life. We must rehabilitate the wounded, and train them and fit them for useful occupations—not for making of nicknacks, but for men's work, which men can do in spite of loss of limbs or other permanent injury. We must stand by our associates in the war against Germany and do our complete duty by them and by the stricken peoples of those countries who suffered under German hands."

Must Finish Work.

"To do our national duty every man, woman and child in America must make every reasonable sacrifice. The great work we have done and are doing is worthy of every sacrifice. Our soldiers have not died merely that we might be safe from German domination; they died for much more than that. They died for American principles, world justice and world liberty, and that a better world should result from their sacrifice. We American people must finish their work."

"Money is a great essential for the proper performance of America's duty and this money must be furnished by the American people. They simply lend it to their government which gives them in exchange securities of unimpeachable value bearing a fair rate of interest. Through the Liberty Loan and through the War Savings Stamps the United States offers every citizen, however small his or her means and however small his or her earning capacity, the opportunity to have a part in the nation's great task. It is a mighty poor American, in my opinion, who lets this opportunity pass, who leaves to others the sacrifice, and the glory of America's mission."

Saving Expensive Ink.

An economy in expensive drawing ink, ordinarily used with a ruling pen, is effected by substituting common writing ink for the drawing ink on many kinds of work in which permanence is not a special factor, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. A convenience, in using this substitute ink in the ordinary containers, is to insert a pen point by the pointed end into the bottle cork. This provides a handy ruling-pen filler, similar to the usual quill stoppers.
